Over its 75-year history, TCAs Annual Convention has become the premier gathering for the truckload segment of the trucking industry. Geared toward for-hire carriers, industry suppliers, and individuals involved with truckload-specific operations, the 3.5-day event provides face-to-face time for top industry executives to share ideas and develop new strategies for the future. Participants will stay abreast of rapidly changing industry issues and learn tactics for growing their businesses through numerous workshops, panel discussions, and dynamic speakers. Abundant networking and professional development opportunities are provided. There's also an exhibit hall showcasing the latest products, services, and technology, an awards banquet, special dinners, receptions, and social events, association committee and business meetings, and much more. The TCA Annual Convention usually takes place in early spring and has been lauded as an outstanding value by many past attendees.
